Norfolk Resident, Beaten and Slashed, Requests Matter Be Forgotten.

NORFOLK, Va., March 9.—Although badly beaten and cut by a band of five men, who kidnaped him from his home, 921 Dinwiddie street, Portsmouth, shortly after Monday midnight, Otto Nottingham, business man, says he could not identify any of his assailants. He has asked the police not to continue their investigations, as he does not wish to prosecute his assailants. Nottingham, the police say, would probably have suffered more sectors in turiles they he add. more serious injuries than he did but for the timely arrival of a former Norfolk county officer.

One of the band of five men had a razor in his hand and was preparing to use it on Nottingham when From reports one of the men who attacked Nottingham is making no effort to conceal the fact that he was one of five who visited Nottingham's home Monday night and forcibly carried him away.
